AGRICULTURE IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Meeting of Grangers and Educators Will Result in all Probability of the Study being Taught in Rural Schools.

Agriculture will be taught next year in the rural schools throughout Pennsylvania, and if congress views this matter in the same light as do this and other states such studies will become regular factors in all public schools in the country, the expense to be met by federal appropriations.

Resolutions to these ends were the outcome of Friday's conference of Patrons of Husbandry and state educational officials at Harrisburg, the latter agreeing to carry out the recommendations.

Both the farmers and the educational men are extremely sanguine of the future.

Dr. N. C. Schaeffer, state superintendent of public instruction, has been endeavoring to add agriculture to the rural schools, but he had some hesitation as to the sentiment. Friday's session showed decisively that the sentiment exists.

The resolution adopted at the conference reads that agriculture should be taught in the country schools, starting next fall, and that Doctor Schaffer shall at once issue an edict to teachers to prepare to teach the elements of husbandry.

Details as to the course of study, examination of teachers, etc., are left to Doctor Schaeffer and his assistants. Prof. L. H. Dennis, recently added to the staff of the department of public instruction as agricultural expert, will have direct charge of the plans.

The second resolution commends unqualifiedly the congressional plan to give federal appropriations to schools and compel all secondary schools to have courses in agriculture, domestic science and industrial arts. Congressman William B. Wilson, of this state, is one of the backers of the proposed legislation.

William T. Creasy, state Grange Master, chairman of the conference, went to Washington at the close of the session to present the resolution to the proper officials.

Grangers and educators both feel that the conference will be decidedly productive of tangible results in the immediate future.

Besides the state grangers and the state educators who were at the conference, there were present Dr. Thomas F. Hunt, State College; Edith Elicott Smith, of Pennsdale, president of the Pennsylvania Rural Progress League; N. B. Critchfield, secretary of agriculture, and J. H. Burkett, of New York, editor of agriculture textbooks.

All spoke and were enthusiastic about the plans, Doctor Schaeffer putting on the finishing touches when the resolution to teach agriculture in the Pennsylvania schools was presented. "This is just what I want," he said.

Governor Tener was present for an hour or two and warmly indorsed the plans of the conference.

LOCALS.

William F. Thomas, of Renovo, has moved to Flemington, near Lock Haven.

Samuel W. Moore became ill the latter part of last week, but is now very much better.

Register J. Frank Smith was in town the other day, and his chief mission was to beautify the family burying lot in the Centre Hall cemetery.

Rev. W. A. H. Streamer, who will shortly complete his theological course at the Susquehanna University, has declined the call to become pastor of the Lutheran church at Bellefonte.

Rev. R. Raymond Jones, pastor of the Reformed church, preached to the veterans of the Civil War, in the Reformed church on Sunday evening. He based his remarks on the passage of scripture describing the battle led to victory by Gideon.

Rev. J. Max Lantz, pastor of the Penns Valley Methodist charge, is the owner of a Ford five-passenger car, purchased from H. C. Breon & Co., Millheim. The minister sold his driving horse, and hereafter will make his trips over the charge in his car.

John Rupp, three years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Rupp, of Milroy, fell into three feet of water in a newly dug cess pool on Saturday and drowned. The mother had laid down to take a nap, leaving the child to play about the house. He wandered to the back lot, and fell into the excavation. The mother imagined in her sleep that she heard the child call.

J. Elmer Campbell went to Annville, Lebanon county, to be present at the graduation exercises of his daughter Mary Love, at the Annville High School. Her graduation present from her father and mother was a beautiful gold watch. She also received many handsome gifts from her friends. Mr. Campbell and daughter returned home the beginning of the week.

CENTRE COUNTY POMONA GRANGE.

Met at Port Matilda Thursday of Last Week.

The second quarterly session of the Centre County Pomona Grange met in the hall of the Port Matilda Grange, Thursday of last week. There were two sessions, forenoon and afternoon, both of which were well attended. Those from Penns and Nittany Valleys traveled by private conveyances to Bellefonte and there took the train for their objective point.

The meeting was opened by Master Leonard Rhone; the few offices vacant were filled by appointment. The address of welcome was made by A. S. Williams, a member of the Grange in whose hall the sessions were being held, who extended a hearty welcome, and this was seconded by every member of his grange during every hour of sessions. The response was by a member of Progress Grange.

The first business was to hear the report of the various secretaries of the enterprise conducted by the organization. The secretary of the fire insurance company made his usual flattering report. The finances of the company are in first class condition. The losses during the past year were light and consequently the insurance tax was the minimum. A committee of three—S. W. Smith, Daniel Grove and D. K. Keller—was appointed to formulate a clause instructing the directors to notify all insured of the expiration of their policies ten days previous to such expiration, and this was done.

Messrs. D. M. Campbell, J. A. Hunter and Austin Dale were appointed to represent the County Grange in the body to elect trustees of Pennsylvania State College, and Messrs. S. W. Smith, Daniel Grove and David Miller were appointed to meet the state's representatives at the commissioner's office, Tuesday, June 11th, at which time a place will be selected for the holding of the institutes in Centre county during the winter of 1912—1913.

The secretary of the Patrons Rural Telephone company reported that there were now in use on the company's lines three hundred and twenty-five telephones, and that the combined indebtedness of all the companies was but two $200.

An address by the Master on the "Management of Subordinate Granges" was a feature, and Miss Rhone read a highly interesting paper on "The proper selection of food and its preparation for the table," and Mrs. M. A. Sankey read Mr. Meekin's report on "Co-operation in Centre County" as written by him for the Country Gentleman.

Mrs. Sankey, Mrs. D. W. Bradford and Miss Minnie Laird, recited appropriate poems that were very much appreciated.

At the noon recess hour all were invited to the dining room of the hall where an elaborate dinner had been prepared. It was such a dinner as could be prepared only by those who first handed come into possession of the fat of the land, and no class of people more fully enjoy the products of the soil when on the dining board than those whose hands participate in the planting and reaping.

The state livestock sanitary board is passing along to tax collectors and constables the act of assembly of June 15th, 1911, relating to their duty in collecting dog tax and disposition of dogs not properly tagged. The latter sections of the act provid for the constable to kill all dogs not wearing a tax tag, and also gives land owners and legalized tenants the privilege of killing all such dogs found on their premises. The dog without a tax tag on him has no standing in the eyes of the law, but is termed a nuisance.

Centre Mills.

Pearl Gilmore was at her home on Sunday.

A suckling colt belonging to G. E. Miller died a few days ago.

Mrs. Aaron Smull is very feeble, having no use of her one limb. Her affliction is due to rheumatism.

William Bair, of this place, took a load of flour to the various customers of the Centre Mills Flouring Mills.

Mrs. W. Vernon Godshall and daughters sailed from Porto Rico on 22nd, and are expected here on Tuesday.

C. W. Kline and family, of State College, visited the former's brother, John A. Kline, on Sunday. The trip was made in Mr. Kline's auto.

Mrs. W. J. Cann, of Altoona, has recovered from diphtheria, and so far none of the children have contracted the disease. Mr. Cann waited on his wife and also performed all the household work.

Iron coops for chicks that have many advantages over the handmade coops; feed boxes, all sizes.—J. H. and S. E. Weber, Centre Hall and Oak Hall Station.

COUNTY S. S. CONVENTION.

Gathering at Pine Hall the Largest in Number of Delegates—The Officers.

The forty-third annual Centre County Sunday School Convention convened in the Reformed church, at Pine Hall, on Thursday and Friday of last week. One hundred and fifteen delegates, from every section of the county, responded to the roll call, making it one of the largest gatherings of its kind in the history of the association.

The program proved interesting and inspiring to all Sunday School workers. The sessions opened on Thursday evening with devotional exercises led by Rev. Charles S. Stover, after which Mrs. Maud J. Baldwin, one of the state workers, placed before the institute the goal set for the year 1912, giving many ways and means whereby the attendance and efficiency of the schools may be increased.

The chief feature of the evening, however, was the Organized Adult Bible Class demonstration. The good work such an organization may do was vividly placed before the audience. At the Friday session the pastors, in whose churches such Bible classes have been organized, were called upon for expressions of the worth of such classes. The ministers who responded were: Reverends Glenn, Faust, Winey, Schuyler, Yocum, Smith, and Sassaman. Their expressions are summarized as follows:

The members do evangelistic work for the salvation of souls.

Assist the pastor in the Sunday School and the Church.

Help to increase the Sunday School attendance.

"Out to Win" committees bring men into school and church who could not be reached otherwise.

The members stand shoulder to shoulder with other church organizations.

Help the teacher by personal contact and active interest in the school. It is no longer the teacher's class but my class.

The organized Adult Bible Classes, reported to the State Superintendent, now number twenty-seven. These are now located in Philipsburg, Powelliton, Bellefonte, State College, Centre Hall, Rebersburg and Aaronsburg. In the organization of Teachers' Training Classes the county has qualified as number two in the state; in the percentage of Bible classes Centre county stands number fifty-four. There is room for active work on the part of every district.

The earnestness and suggestive methods of the state workers, namely Mrs. Baldwin and Mr. W. D. Stem, were apparent in every word and act. These gave inspiration to the delegates which must mean much for the advancement of Sabbath school work in the county. Mr. Stem's talk on the "Teen Age" was filled with the choicest suggestions, with a full understanding of the boy's needs. Mr. Campbell, County Work Secretary Y. M. C. A., presented the "Conservation of Rural Institutions," correlating the talk of Mr. Stem. It is worth while for us, who believe that the best asset of our good old Centre county is human life, to come close in touch with such men, men who are on fire with enthusiasm, men who are devoting their lives for the upbuilding of character among our young people.

The talk of Dr. Yocum, on "My Brother and I" was splendid. We are the better for it. Prof. Pattee, on "The College and Sunday School" suggested much by way of improvement. The whole program was replete with good things. The exhibit of hand-work of children in charge of Mrs. Nuttall was something new in Sabbath school work and proved attractive. It was one of the most successful meetings of its kind and good for all who were there.

The good people of Pine Hall entertained the delegates most royally. Although the people are most wholly farmers and were busy with their work, still every one found a welcome in their homes. Meals, during the day, were served in a tent erected on the church grounds.

THE OFFICERS FOR 1912-1913.

President, C. L. Gramley, Rebersburg.
Vice President, G. L. Goodhart, Centre Hall.
Secretary, L. W. Nuttall, Philipsburg.
Treasurer, A. Luckenbach, Bellefonte.
Statistical Secretary, Rev. C. W. Winey, Bellefonte.
Home Department Superintendent, Rev. J. I. Sassaman, State College.
Teacher Training Superintendent, Rev. F. W. Barry, Centre Hall.
O. A. B. C. Superintendent, David Miller, Bellefonte.
Temperance Superintendent, Rev. Ambrose Schmidt.
Elementary Superintendents, Miss McGirk, Philipsburg; Miss Helen Bartholomew, Centre Hall.

The dwelling house being erected for George Ishler, at the station, is being constructed by H. C. Gettig, of Colyer, under contract. Mr. Gettig, assisted by H. E. Shreckengost, and sons W. L. and E. M. Shreckengost, of Farmers Mills, and David F. Young, of Colyer, began work on the building on Monday. The foundation wall was built of concrete, and is pronounced very satisfactory, the cost having been less than a stone wall of similar dimensions.

LETTERS FROM SUBSCRIBERS.

Reporter Subscribers' Correspondent Column—Interesting Communications.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Editor Reporter:

We are having a newspaper strike here at this time, and it does not look like a settlement in the near future. The newspapers are being printed by "scab" printers, and but comparatively few papers are sold on the streets. The dailies are being delivered under police protection, and almost every day there is a riot.

The freight handlers are also out on a strike, and as a consequence the freight houses are full of police as a means of protection. Chicago is seldom without labor trouble of some kind. These strikes do not affect my work to any great extent.

I still enjoy reading the Reporter and so does also the wife, although she is a Chicago girl. With best wishes for the Reporter and all my friends in the east, I remain,

Very truly yours,

Dear Editor Reporter:

I enclose herewith $1.00 in currency to renew my mother's subscription to the Reporter for another year.

Summer is already in full blast in this part of the country, regardless of the date designated in the almanac as the beginning of the season. With such an early beginning it promises well for a repetition of last year's tropical summer.

Will Teddy be the next President? At any rate, it now looks as if he had the nomination cinched. After what happened to Taft in his home state he had better quit.

With kind regards and best wishes, I am

Very truly yours,

The Journal gives this account of an attempt to swindle a Millheim merchant: On Thursday afternoon a young girl who said her home was at Cowurn, went into the store of A. Kessler, in this place and bought a bill of goods amounting to $25. She told Miss Jennie Kessler, who had waited on her, that she was waiting on her father to come and pay for the goods. When Miss Jennie's attention was called to another part of the store, the girl picked up the goods and quickly vanished through the door. Mr. Kessler and daughter followed and after a race of nearly a half-mile overtook her. When the girl saw she was followed she dropped the goods and ran.

The date of the Yearick-Hoy reunion is Thursday, June 20th, and Hecla Park the place.

DEATHS

Mrs. Anna Margaret Gingerich, wife of John Gingerich, died at her home in Brownsville, as the result of paralysis. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eunice Kreamer and was born at Pleasant Gap, September 2nd, 1853, hence was in her fifty-eighth year. Thirty-six years ago she was married to John Gingerich, of Centre Hall, and the first few years of their married life were spent here but later they moved to Brownsville where they made their home ever since. In addition to her husband she is survived by the following children: Mrs. Florence Gentile, of Vancouver, British Columbia; William H. and J. L., of Brownsville; Mrs. Mary Masco, of Masontown, Pa.; James C., of Clairton, Pa.; D. J., of Brownsville, and J. D., at home. One brother and three sisters also survive, namely: John Kramer of Kansas; Mrs. Elizabeth Struble and Mrs. Jerry Gill, of this county, and Mrs. Myra Frazier, of Kansas. The remains were brought to Bellefonte on Wednesday of last week and taken to the home of Mr. Gingerich's brother-in-law, Wallace S. White, at Axe Mann, where funeral services were held the following morning. Burial was made in the Emerick cemetery in Boggs township.

Mrs. George W. McWilliams, of Fairbrook, was so horribly burned Wednesday of last week that her death occurred on the day following. She was boiling soap, when her clothing caught fire. Her maiden name was Miss Mary Keichline, and she was aged almost seventy-three years. She had been a resident of this county during all of her life.

George W. McWilliams, her husband, and the following children survive, namely: Henry McWilliams, at home; John McWilliams, near Pine Grove Mills; Prof. Samuel McWilliams, of near Pittsburgh; George McWilliams, of Harrisburg; Mrs. Newton Hess, of the Branch; Mrs. Alice Duckwalter, of Lancaster; Mrs. Edward Bowersox, of Altoona and Mrs. Newton Dreibelbis, of Pine Grove Mills. The following brothers and sisters also survive: John M. Keichline, Esq., and Peter F. Keichline, of Bellefonte; Mrs. Sue Goss, of Pine Grove Mills.

The funeral services were held on Saturday, conducted by Rev. Stover, pastor of the Reformed church; burial at Pine Grove Mills.

Mrs. Margaret Tate, widow of George W. Tate, during his life a well known resident and architect of Bellefonte, died at the home of her sister, Mrs. W. M. Everhart, in Lock Haven, after an illness of about a month with a general breaking down of the system. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Worrick and was born near Mackeyville, in Nittany valley, almost eighty years ago. When a young woman she was united in marriage to George W. Tate and all her married life was spent in Bellefonte. Following her husband's death she moved to Lamar and in 1898 went to Lock Haven and has since made her home with her sister. Burial was made in the Cedar Hill cemetery.

Harry M. Wetzel, aged forty-eight years, was instantly killed in a coal mine at Auawalt, West Virginia, Monday of last week. Interment was made in Bellefonte, the birthplace of the deceased, he having been a son of John A. Wetzel. He was a mining engineer, and a graduate of Lehigh University. A wife and four children survive.

B. F. Reighard, the father of Mrs. E. W. Mauck, of Millheim, died at his home at Shamokin, of heart disease, aged about seventy years. He leaves to survive four children, a son and three daughters. Funeral services were held Friday forenoon and interment was made at Light Street, Columbia county.

Mrs. George Davidson died near Orangeville, Illinois. Her maiden name was Barbara E. Jury, and she was born in Centre county, this state, in 1844.

Deaths of Centre Countians.

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Barnes, widow of the late John Barnes, in Philipsburg. She was born in England and was aged sixty-seven years.

Mrs. Emily J. Valentine, widow of the late George Valentine, in Baltimore, aged eighty years. Her maiden name was Jacobs. Interment at Bellefonte, where she and her husband lived prior to 1893.

Saturday, June 22nd, is the day on which the members of the Centre Hall-Linden Hall telephone company will hold its annual basket picnic at Rhoneymede. That will be the first day of summer, and the event will be duly celebrated.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM ALL PARTS.

The Spring Mills Grange will hold a festival in their hall this (Thursday) evening.

Mrs. Rebecca Scholl and granddaughter, Rebecca Kreamer, are in Altoona with the former's son, John O. Scholl.

P. R. Auman, of Spring Mills, assisted by several other artists, are painting the dwelling house of Mrs. William Colyer, at Centre Hall station.

Miss Mary Love Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Campbell, of Linden Hall, graduated from the Annsville (Lebanon county) High School last week.

Mrs. Wolf, wife of Rev. David J. Wolf, of Tanneytown, Maryland, accompanied by her second son, David, came to Centre Hall last week, and are guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Durst.

Mrs. Koch, of Sunbury, has been at the home of her father, Stephen Moyer, at Millheim, for some time, and the other Sunday her husband, Daniel Koch, spent the day with her at the parental home.

M. P. Weber, who has charge of the laundry department at the Pennsylvania Industrial Reformatory, at Huntingdon, came to Centre Hall last week to visit his brother, John H. Weber, who was ill at that time.

Rev. J. M. Ross has accepted a call to become pastor of the Lutheran charge at Salona, a charge formerly filled by Rev. J. M. Rearick. Rev. Ross will graduate from the theological department of the Susquehanna University in June.

Desiring to go west with the intention of locating either in Colorado, Idaho or Washington, Henry D. Mark retired from the mercantile business in Loganton, having sold his general store to L. E. Best, who has taken charge of the business.

A. E. Kent, of Foster, came to Centre Hall the latter part of last week, and after he will make a trip to New York, expects to return here and remain for some time. Mr. Kent had been in the south for his health, and is now very much improved physically.

H. J. and Miss Katharine Zeigler, of near Bellefonte, drove to Millheim on Friday, and on their way stopped at the Reporter office. They are son and daughter of Mrs. Lydia Zeigler, and live on the Rishel farm, east of Bellefonte. Mrs. Zeigler, who had been quite ill, is now in her usual health.

John H. Weber, the senior member of the firm of J. H. and S. E. Weber, doing business at Centre Hall and Oak Hall Station, was taken seriously ill last week. His condition on Monday was very much improved, and he is now visiting his place of business occasionally, and in the near future will again be able to resume his business as heretofore.

Prof. Albert T. Ilgen, last week, passed through Centre county on his way from Tamaqua to Somerset. For three years, Prof. Ilgen has been connected with the Tamaqua High School, as instructor in the sciences—biology, chemistry and physics. He has been very successful in his work at that place, where a splendid educational sentiment prevails.

J. H. Steward, of Philadelphia, one of the state health inspectors, was in Centre Hall on Monday, having come here from State College. Mr. Steward's mission was to examine the water supply of both the private corporation and the borough plant, as well as the drainage in the borough. His findings here, of course, will be reported to the state department and was not given out to individuals.

This item is from the State College Times: Mr. and Mrs. John S. Baumgardner, accompanied by Mrs. O. P. Adams and son, motored to Oriole last Friday, where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Pearson. Mr. Baumgardner had his eye on a good farm and while at Oriole clinched the bargain. There are ninety acres of land under cultivation and sixty acres in timber, which comprises hickory, oak, chestnut and pine, all second growth.

Rev. and Mrs. B. F. Bieber and daughter Frances, of West Milton, were in Centre Hall for a few days last week, this being their first visit here since leaving the valley almost a year ago. Rev. Bieber came to Centre county primarily to attend the sessions of the Northern Conference at State College. Before returning on Saturday, he visited his former parishioners in the various sections of his former field of labor, and was everywhere heartily welcomed. Mrs. Bieber and little daughter went to Milesburg before going back to their home.

EDUCATE AGAINST SELFISHNESS.

Recently addressing a body of New England students, Richard Olney, secretary of state under President Cleveland, urged them to the duty of subordinating interests of their respective future crafts to the highest claims of citizenship Which is only another way of saying, that in educating our young people we should teach them first the art of living, and second, whatever art by which they are to live; that is, that living comes before getting a livelihood. The claims of citizenship are above those of any trade or profession. Our schools that go in for the vocational training, eminently good in itself, need to look out lest they lay the chief stress upon the matter of getting hold of technical knowledge as the means of making a living. The schools, none of them, are teaching too much about how to become good and worthy citizens, how to make dynamic men and women out of ordinary boys and girls. There is the place for the stress. That, we think, is what Mr. Olney had in mind when he urged those students to sink selfish plans for immediate aggrandizement in the larger purpose of doing good and being good for their country, says the Omaha Bee. For as sure as they do they will have no difficulty in picking up a livelihood somewhere. So if our curriculums could be made to teach and throw their weight against selfishness in education our educational system would be improved right here.

From Copenhagen comes information which will be received with interest by all who are alert to electric progress. Professor Hannover, president of the Polytechnic academy of that capital, is asserted to have invented an electrical accumulator that has five times the capacity of the accumulators now in existence without any increase over them in size and weight. He uses porous lead alloy sheets, the capacity of which is increased by perforating them with millions of microscopic holes. Professor Hannover's accumulator, while it is likely to be more expensive than those now in use, will be most valuable for aeroplanes and submarine boats and in lighting railroad trains.

In more hardy days than these snuff was used as an eye liniment. "The Complete Housewife, or Accomplished Gentlewoman's Companion," which had run into 16 editions by 1758, extols its virtues, says the London Chronicle. Accomplished gentlewomen who find their sight failing with advancing years are advised to rub "the right sort of Portugal snuff into the eyes night and morning, and take it also through the nose." This treatment, it is asserted, "cured Sir Edward Seymour, Sir John Houblon, and Judge Ayres, so that they could read without spectacles after they had used them many years." Some people would prefer spectacles.

A Chicago boy carried away a model aeroplane prize with a machine which had curved wings like a letter U. They gave his model a stability which carried it beyond all rivals, and a professional aviator who witnessed the exhibition declared that the lad had discovered a principle which would undoubtedly be adopted by the builders of aeroplanes. After the boys have been experimenting a few more years it is possible that we shall have a really safe flying machine.

"The words of harmless banter," according to the New York Herald, addressed by a man to two young women, led to his being knocked down by the women's escort, the fall fracturing his skull. As the two words were "Hello, kids!" the New York idea of harmless banter is thus exemplified. It is unfortunate the fellow died because he deserved to be knocked down.

Some men have such a trust in fate that the things they do, trusting to immunity, make this trust really pathetic. Such a man in a New York town lately tried to start a balky mule by giving the animal ammonia to smell. It may be difficult to make him realize how exceptionally lucky he was in merely being carted off to a hospital instead of to an undertaker's.

One of our historians arises to remark that the temple of Solomon cost $5,000,000,000. As it was a government job, we are tempted to wonder what politicians, or set of politicians, got away with the $4,999,000,000.

A man in Chicago complains that he is continually being identified by the police on account of his gold teeth. He must belong to the numerous class who are always getting into trouble because they cannot keep their mouths shut.

Meat eaters, according to a college professor, are more active than vegetarians. Possibly it is because the prices makes the meat eaters hopping mad.

WANTS TO HALT AMERICAN FLEET

Gomez Protests Vigorously Against Intervention.

CUBAN FEELINGS ARE HURT

Information That the United States Contemplates Landing Troops in the Event Of Cuba's Inability To Preserve Peace Causes a Stir.

Havana.—President Gomez Sunday sent a cablegram to President Taft, in which he protests in friendly but firm terms against intervention by the United States.

"It is my duty to say that so serious a resolution alarms and hurts the feelings of a people who love and are jealous of their independence," he says, after reciting that he had received from United States Minister Beaupre a note informing him that the Washington government had ordered a gunboat to Nipe Bay and a strong naval concentration at Key West, in anticipation of possible eventualities, and also in event that the Cuban government was unable to protect American property, it was the intention to land forces for that purpose.

President Gomez says the government is doing its utmost, having within four days sent 3,000 troops by land and sea to crush the rebels in Oriente, and in that short time having restored order in all parts of the island with that exception. He also says that 9,000 rifles with ammunition have been distributed to loyal citizens and that the government is prepared to flood the comparatively small disturbed section with regulars and volunteers.

GREATEST STEAMER AFLOAT

Three Wireless Operators and Two First Officers, One Of Whom Will Be Responsible For Navigation.

Hamburg, Germany.—The Hamburg-American Line's new mammoth trans-Atlantic steamer Imperator, the biggest vessel in the world, was successfully launched here Thursday. Emperor William acted as sponsor.

The launching weight of the Imperator was 29,755 tons, but when completed it is believed she will displace about 52,000 tons.

Among the innovations introduced into the new vessel as a result of the Titanic tragedy the company has determined to swing outboard the lifeboats, in which room is provided for every soul carried by the steamer. The Imperator will carry three wireless operators, thus providing for continuous service. The dynamo for the illumination of the vessel and for the wireless apparatus is to be carried above the water line. The Imperator will also carry two first officers, one of whom will be solely responsible for the navigation and security of the vessel.

The Imperator is under subsidy of the German Navy, and in time of war can be pressed into transport service. When the Titanic, Olympic, Lusitania and Mauretania were built, it was rumored in diplomatic circles that England boasted she could transport an entire army to German territory over night, and immediately it was announced that Germany would build the biggest ship.

The recent loss of the White Star leviathan Titanic gave rather a somber tone to today's ceremonies; but, nevertheless, there was a chorus of ringing cheers when the monster vessel slid into the water.

BIG FOREIGN TRADE.

Our Exports Exceed Imports By $600,000,000.

Washington.—The foreign trade of the United States during the fiscal year, which will end June 30, will exceed any previous year's business.

This was the statement made by Department of Commerce and Labor officials following a tabulation of the import and export trade for the last 10 months. The statistics until the end of April, made public today, show that the imports for the fiscal year will approximate $1,500,000,000, and that the exports will reach about $2,200,000,000—exceeding by $45,000,000 and $150,000,000, respectively, the record fiscal year of 1910-1911.

Coffee, sugar, rubber, hides and skins, chemicals and cloth materials lead in value among the articles imported, while raw cotton, iron and steel, meat, breadstuffs and copper were the principal goods shipped abroad.

U. S. CONSUL KILLED.

Frank Hill Meets Tragic Death In a German Hotel.

Frankfort-on-the-Main, Germany.—United States Consul General Frank D Hill, of Minnesota, was killed by falling over the railing of the staircase in a big hotel here. He was found on the ground floor with a broken skull. It is assumed the fatal accident was caused by a spell of giddiness. There were no witnesses to the tragedy.

ONE MILLION FOR EDUCATION

Largest Contribution Is $250,000 and Goes To George Peabody College For Teachers At Nashville, Tennessee.

New York.—Nearly $1,000,000 was contributed to the cause of education by the General Education Board, founded by John D. Rockefeller at its meeting here.

Of this sum $700,000 was appropriated for distribution among five colleges, the largest contribution, $250,000, going to the George Peabody College for Teachers, of Nashville, Tenn., for the establishment of the Seaman A. Knapp School of Country Life. The other colleges awarded appropriations are:

Beloit College, Beloit, Wis., $100,000.

Coe College, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, $100,000.

MacAlester College, St. Paul, $50,000.

University of Rochester, Rochester, N. Y., $200,000.

It is explained that the gifts to the colleges mentioned are all conditional upon an equal sum being raised by the respective institutions.

Aside from the college appropriations, the sum of $210,000 was set aside for demonstration work in agriculture in the Southern States, for professors of secondary education in State universities of the South and to aid the work of negro education in the South. The demonstration work appropriation is $133,000. The miscellaneous appropriations were:

For professors of secondary education in the several State universities of the Southern States, $33,100.

For supervision of negro rural schools in Kentucky, North Carolina and Virginia, $9,000.

To three negro schools—Hampton Institute, Hampton, Va.; Tuskegee Institute, Tuskegee, Ala., and the Spellman Seminary, of Atlanta, Ga.—the sum of $35,000.

What may be regarded as the board's most important appropriation was that for the establishment of the Seaman A. Knapp School of Country Life. The late Dr. Seaman A. Knapp had been in charge for the past 10 years of the farmers' co-operative demonstration work in the South.

SET HENS IN COFFIN.

Farmer Hoped Not To Die Till Chicks Were Hatched.

North Adams, Mass.—When Edward D Pomeroy was buried Thursday in the little mountain town of Buckland in a coffin that he constructed with his own hands, a strange plea made by the old man to a doctor to save his life for two weeks came to light.

"Can't you keep me alive two weeks?" asked the ill man, anxiously.

"Why do you want to live just two weeks?" asked the doctor.

"Well, you see," he replied. "I have six hens setting in that coffin and I'd rather not disturb them until they're hatched."

But Pomeroy died Wednesday and new nests were found for the hens.

HOUSE WANTS TO ADJOURN.

Will Carry Out Its Program To Get Away June 15.

Washington.—The House is holding to its program for adjournment about June 15, though no understanding has been reached with the Senate leaders, who are not optimistic.

Representative Underwood announced that "the program for adjournment June 15 must be carried out so far as the House is concerned." He said he would insist on sidetracking all legislation there in favor of the appropriation bills and a few measures of imperative importance.

U. S. Suing Over Glass Eyes.

Chicago.—The United States versus 2,659 glass eyes, is the title of a suit brought in the Federal Court here by United States District Attorney Wilkerson. The action is in the form of a libel against the glass eyes seized by the Collector of Customs from a Chicago optical concern. The Government charges that the eyes were smuggled into the country from Europe and that no declaration was made at the port of New York.

AMERICAN FORCE SENT TO CUBA

Seven Hundred Marines Off for Guantanamo.

NEGRO REBELLION SERIOUS

Suspicion That the Cuban Government Might Be Tempted To Encourage a Rebellious Movement.

Philadelphia.—The United States transport Prairie sailed from the Philadelphia Navy Yard with a full regiment of marines under sealed orders for Cuba.

Only one-third the amount of beef intended as provisions was aboard, about 20,000 pounds having been rejected by inspectors as it was about to be loaded upon the vessel because it did not meet contract requirement. The hour set for sailing was changed, and an effort made to secure other beef to replace that which had been condemned, but hurry orders from Washington caused the vessel to leave with about 10,000 pounds of meat. It had been intended to take 30,000 pounds.

The Prairie had already been loaded with 400,000 rounds of small arm ammunition, three three-inch steel field pieces and six automatic guns, as well as coal, tents and provisions for the marines when the rejected beef arrived at the dock.

Col. Lincoln Karmany, of the Norfolk Navy Yard, is in command of the marines who sailed. The regiment of 750 men is made up of detachments from Brooklyn, Washington, Annapolis and other points, as well as from the local yard.

MORE TROOPS IF NEEDED.

15,000 Men Could Be On the Way In a Few Days.

Washington.—The Cuban military authorities admit that the situation is serious, but think they can control it. The government is said to be receiving offers of service from various organizations and individuals. A party of congressmen left Havana for their respective districts in the disaffected regions to make an effort to affiliate the negroes. It is reliably reported to the State Department that many people consider the movement designed to provoke intervention.

No explanation was volunteered at the department of the receipt of the report about provoking intervention. But it has been a matter of discussion for some time among the Diplomatic Corps here that the Cuban government itself might be tempted to encourage a rebellious movement in the hope of securing a continuance in power by American backing.

Telegrams Mailed.

Washington.—That thousands of telegrams for which money is accepted are sent by mail to their destination, was the assertion made by Representative Cary, of Wisconsin, and President S. J. Konenkamp, of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, in their testimony before the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, which is now considering a bill requiring the filing time to be placed on all telegrams.

Portugal To Withdraw.

Lisbon, Portugal.—The chamber of deputies voted to abolish the Portuguese legation at the Vatican.

May Move On Cuba.

Washington.—The Cuban disturbances were suddenly thrust upon Congress, when the Senate, after brief discussion, passed a resolution instructing the Committee on Cuban Relations to investigate and report upon necessary legislation to determine when and how the United States should exercise the right to intervene under the so-called Platt amendment law. The committee, headed by Senator Page, of Vermont, will consider the questions as speedily as possible.

PLANS TO CREATE MILITARY RESERVE

Tilson, Has Scheme to be Prepared for War.

ARMY IS INADEQUATE

Quarter Million Men Ready For Emergency—Avoids Expense Of Large Standing Army, But Gives Real Preparedness.

Washington.—A plan for the creation of a military reserve that will insure a force of nearly a quarter of a million trained men is proposed in a bill introduced in the House by Representative Tilson, of Connecticut.

He framed the bill after studying conditions among the troops on the Mexican frontier a year ago and after consultation with many high Army and War Department officials it is pronounced by military men to be the most important military legislation since the Civil War.

The Connecticut Representative has started out with two propositions to be met: First, that the Army of the United States (with the national guard as it now exists) is entirely inadequate for national defense in case of war. Second, that the people of the United States do not desire and should not be compelled to maintain a regular standing army large enough for adequate defense in time of war.

Under present conditions he estimates that 40,000 regulars and 90,000 national guardsmen could probably be put into the field within 30 days in case of war. Under his bill, he says, there could be put into service in the same time, 75,000 regulars and 160,000 militia.

The plan is based on the policy of keeping in touch with the enlisted men of the regular Army, Navy, Marine Corps and National Guard who have been trained in military tactics, so that these men could be called to the colors in time of actual war. The men in the reserves will be brushed up on their trajning every year by military maneuvers such as are held every year by the national guard.

The companies, battalions and regiments of the regular army, or of the national guard, are not kept at their full authorized strength, but in skeleton form. The first feature of the plan is to provide reserves which would raise these units in the army and national guard to their maximum strength should a war start.

To accomplish this condition the enlistment period of the Army is increased from three to six years, the last three years of which may be taken on furlough. These furlough men are to be kept on the roll of the organizations to which they belong and are to be subject to the general laws and regulations of men on furlough.

A further reserve is provided to include those who have been trained in the regular Army, Navy, or Marine Corps or in the National Guard, but whose furlonghs have run out.

RICHESON BURIED.

Body Rests Beside Grave Of Paternal Grandparents.

Lynchburg, Va.—The burial of Clarence V. T. Richeson, who paid the penalty in Boston for the murder of Avis Linnell, took place here at the old Richeson home at the foot hills of the Blue Ridge, after the body had been hauled in a springless farm wagon by a long detour over the roughest roads of Amherst county from Amherst Courthouse. The body was not laid by the grave of the former minister's mother, but five miles distant and beside the graves of his paternal grandparents. Only the immediate family witnessed the burial, the brotners and several near relatives of the executed man acting as pallbearers, as well as assisting in filling the grave.

So great was the desire of the family for privacy that the body was taken in a roundabout way through Amherst Courthouse and was out of the village before the residents knew it had arrived.

Italy Told Of Frisco.

Rome.—The San Francisco Exposition Committee, which is touring the Continent in the interest of the Panama Pacific Exposition, was presented to the King and Premier Giolitti by the American ambassador.

Bomb Wrecks Newspaper Building.

El Paso, Texas.—A bomb thrown at the front windows of the office of Paso Del Norte, a Spanish newspaper, published in the heart of the city and supporting the Madero Government, wrecked a portion of the front of the building. No one was injured.

Minister a Suicide.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Delirious from typhoid fever, Rev. H. G. Buisch, an Episcopal minister, escaped from his nurses at a hospital here and jumped from the window of a corridor, dying from his injuries 40 minutes later. Mr. Buisch came to Pennsylvania from New York state, where he had held charges at Hamburg and Middleport. He was born in Batavia, and was graduated from the Delancey Divinity School in Syracuse in 1902.

NEGRO BURNED AT THE STAKE

A Fiend's Brutality Fiendishly Avenged in Texas.

VICTIM CONFESSES CRIME

After the Wretch Had Made Confession He Was Taken From Sheriffs' Posse By Two Thousand Citizens.

Tyler, Texas.—Dan Davis, a negro, was burned to death at a stake in the streets of Tyler after he had confessed to assaulting Miss Carrie Johnson, of this city, a week ago. Two thousand persons participated in the lynching.

Davis was brought here from Athens, Texas. When members of the sheriff's posse arrived at the jail with the negro they were confronted by several hundred citizens, who waited until the black man had written his confession, then demanded that he be turned over to them.

Officers and citizens who had gathered inside the jail protested, but finally surrendered the negro to the mob, whose numbers made protests useless, the officers say. From the jail the prisoner was led to the public square, where several wagon loads of wood had been piled.

Davis had signed a statement confessing to the assault, but before the match was touched to the pile of wood on which the negro had been bound by the mob he was again asked if he were guilty.

"I am guilty," he cried, and a moment later the flames were leaping high about his head.

He was tied to a rail and after he reiterated his confession a match was applied and the flames enveloped him. The mob stood around the fire until it died down and little was left but charred bones and ashes.

The work of the lynchers was done quickly and quietly. The determination of the men who had the execution in charge appeared to have a sobering effect upon them.

In his written statement Davis told how he and another negro attacked Miss Johnson, who is the daughter of a farmer, as she was walking along a railroad track to Tyler, in midafternoon Monday, May 13.

While the girl herself did not identify her assailant, he was identified by a man who claims to have seen him in the neighborhood soon before the crime was committed. The girl's condition is critical.

NAVIGATION CONGRESS.

President Attends Meeting In Philadelphia.

Philadelphia.—President Taft opened the twelfth International Navigation Congress here with an address of welcome to the foreign and United States delegates. He arrived from Washington with 18 of the Diplomatic Corps.

Taft said that the international discussion of navigation problems tends to encourage universal peace and spoke of the efforts of his administration to conclude arbitration treaties with Great Britain and France.

"Just now we are suffering a little halt," he said, "but I know the hearts of the American people beat high in the hope of universal peace and the settlement of all disputes by judicial decision."

FLUID MATTER BARRED.

Department Rules That Canned Vegetables Must Not Float.

Washington.—Canned vegetables must be vegetables—not a few stray peas or beans floating around, hopelessly lost, in a watery waste of juice or other preservative, according to a revolutionary pure food ruling announced by the Department of Agriculture. Excessive use of fluids in canned foods will be prohibited, the department's edict declares. Limited use of juice, brine, syrup or other matter will be permitted, but only sufficient to fill natural gaps between the solid matter.

LIVES WITH BROKEN NECK.

Prisoner Goes To His Execution With Smile.

Rawlins, Wyo.—Joseph Seng was hanged at the state penitentiary for the murder of William Lloyd in an Evanston (Wyo.) saloon fight. Seng went to the scaffold with a smile. His neck was broken, but it was nearly 10 minutes before life was extinct.

Thaw Denied Jury Trial.

White Plains, N. Y.—Supreme Court Justice Keogh here handed down his decision denying the motion of Harry K. Thaw for a trial by jury in Thaw's latest attempt to be released from Matteawan Asylum for the Criminal Insane. The decision was written on the back of the motion papers, and simply says the trial by jury is denied. There was no opinion filed.

SYNOPSIS.

Garrett Coast, a young man of New York City, meets Douglas Blackstock, who invites him to a card party. He accepts, although he dislikes Blackstock, the reason being that both are in love with Katherine Thaxter. Coast fails to convince her that Blackstock is unworthy of her friendship. At the party Coast meets two named Dundas and Van Tuyl. There is a quarrel, and Blackstock shoots Van Tuyl dead. Coast struggles to wrest the weapon from him, thus the police discover them. Coast is arrested for murder. He is convicted, but as he begins his sentence Dundas names Blackstock as the murderer and kills himself. Coast becomes free, but Blackstock has married Katherine Thaxter and fled. Coast purchases a yacht and while sailing sees a man thrown from a distant boat. He rescues the fellow who is named Appleyard. They arrive at a lonely island, known as No Man's Land. Coast starts out to explore the place and comes upon some deserted buildings. He discovers a man dead. Upon going further and approaching a house he sees Katherine Thaxter, who explains that her husband, under the name of Black, has bought the island. He is blind, a wireless operator and has a station there. Coast informs her that her husband murdered Van Tuyl. Coast sees Blackstock and some Chinamen burying a man. They fire at him, but he is rescued by Appleyard, who gets him to the Echo in safety, and there he reveals that he is a secret service man and has been watching the crowd on the island, suspecting they are criminals. Coast is anxious to fathom the mysteries of No Man's Land, and is determined to save Katherine. Appleyard believes that Black and his gang make a shield of the wireless station to conduct a smuggling business. Coast penetrates to the lair of Blackstock's disguise. Katherine enters the room and passes him a note which tells Coast that neither his life or her own are safe. Coast feels that Blackstock suspects him. Appleyard and the Echo disappear. Coast assures Katherine of his protection, and she informs him that they are to abandon the island immediately. The blind man and his coolie servant overpower Coast, who afterward escapes and is met by Katherine, wishing to flee. They discover a yawl but before they can reach it the coolie disables the craft. Black appears and tells Coast that he is no longer blind. He is overpowered, and Coast and Katherine fly from the spot, and go to a remote part of the island and signal a boat which they see in the distance.

Out of the dusk, in which objects were just perceptible, the bungalow loomed up before them. By common consent they paused, Coast looking back toward the beach, Katherine peering up into his face.

"Are they coming, Garrett?"

"Not yet," he said, perplexity in his tone. "It's as I thought: they know they can lay hands on us at any time. So we can go hang until they're ready to take up our case. . . . "But," he amended, squaring his shoulders and his jaw and infusing his manner with a confidence and decision he had been glad to feel, "we'll fool 'em. It won't be long now."

"You mean before your friend—Mr. Appleyard?"

"Yes. He's sure to be here at almost any minute—he or the revenue cutter."

"But, Garrett . . . what are we going to do in the meantime?"

"We'll have to stick to the open till the Echo comes. Is there a lantern in the house—anything to make a light with?"

"Why—yes," she replied in surprise; "there's a kerosene lantern we used at night, when it was necessary to go to the farm-house. But . . . wouldn't it lead them to us?" Isn't darkness our surest cover?"

"Absolutely; but I've got to have something to signal Appleyard with. We agreed that I should show a light on the sand pit, in event of any trouble; but he'll be counting on the cutter being here by this time, and it won't do to let him make a landing on the beach near the long-boat."

"I understand. Just a minute . . . Is there time?"

"Plenty," he said briefly, adding inconsistently: "But hurry."

He followed her into the house and, while she disappeared to look for the lantern, found his way to the divan and robbed it of its covering—a heavy steamer rug, which he folded and tucked beneath one arm before Katherine returned.

"You won't want the light now?"

"No. Give me your hand."

They stepped out into unrelieved night: darkness, dense and warm and rendered tangible by its burden of humidity.

In the north arose a confusion of many voices; and in that quarter, likewise, was a firefly show of weaving lantern-lights.

Hand in hand they stole away like thieves, not three minutes before the bungalow was invaded by Blackstock and the crew of the schooner—a loud-mouthed, roystering company, making hideous the night with the clamor of their disputations and their cursings.

Unseen and all unsought (so far as they could say, with no sign given them of either detection or pursuit) they hurried off as warily and fearfully as wild things skirting the haunts of men, skulking silently over hills and down through hollows, over fields and fences, until at length they came without accident out upon the spreading sweep of sand to the crest of the long, low-lying spit.

Later they found themselves at the end of this, the northern extremity of the island; and here Coast put down the unlighted lantern and spread the rug in a slight depression between low dunes. . . .

Cimmerian murk encompassed them, abysmal, impassive, penetrated only by dimmed rays of light from the windows of the bungalow, seemingly incalculable miles distant.

Slowly the hours ebbed. They had long since ceased to speak. From the regularity of her breathing Coast believed she slept despite her fears, overcome by thorough exhaustion of every fiber, nerve and faculty. For himself he would not stir for fear of waking her.

The light of a lantern peeped over the ridge, inland, and descended, wavering, through the Cold Lairs to the beach, then became stationary near the edge of the water, over which it shot a long, slender spear of soft radiance.

He understood that a guard had tardily been set over the seine-boat.

From the bungalow came thin, far sounds of voices, now and then a husky shout cacophonous in that hour of calm, immutable peace.

They were drinking up there, forgetful alike of danger and their recent disaster. . . .

Abruptly he saw that the lane of lantern light was shattered and dancing. He jumped to his feet, with a glance above that showed him a faint flash of starlight. He held up his hand and a breath of air blew cool against it—a shiver of breeze out of the long-boat awakened to its approach, apparently for the first time, and sounded the alarm by firing a shot from his revolver. A second later, in desperation, Coast sent a piercing whistle echoing over the waters.

Immediately, at the pistol shot, the Echo swerved sharply off to the west, her red side light disappeared; and for a full minute held on so before she swung smartly on her heel and showed first the green and then the red, bearing straight as an arrow for the end of the sand spit.

On the island, at the same, the results of the report (which, when the catboat came about, was followed by four others in brisk succession) were no less marked. Down the wind from the bungalow floated a wild chorus of shouts and calls. In its vicinity half a dozen twinkling lights studded the darkness on the uplands, springing to life as if by magic, and were whisked hither and thither like so many will-o'-the-wisps, suggesting a stupid, half-distracted ferment of conflicting advice, argument and wills among the smugglers. Presently, however, some sort of order was evidently evolved; the lights converged to a common center and bore swiftly down toward the beach. . . .

Coast put down the lantern on the swelling, rounded summit of a small dune, and took the steamer rug from Katherine, mechanically folding it as he divided troubled attention between the nearing boat and the distant rabble—now streaming headlong down through the Cold Lairs and shouting as they came.

"No more need for this," he said, referring to the rug; "the light won't tell them anything they don't know, now. But . . . " His perturbed voice trailed off irresolutely as he stood, a frowning glance directed down the beach.

Katherine was quick to catch the note of worry in his tone. "What is it?" she asked. "You're not afraid—you don't think—"

"No," he reassured her stoutly; "they're much too far away to catch us now. Only—hark to that!"

There was, in fact, a strange and sinister sound in the yelping of the gang; their cries were indistinguishable, but owned a dull, level pitch of minatory rage, infinitely perturbing, since it seemed so senseless—like the harsh and inarticulate snarling of an infuriated lunatic.

A shiver shot along Coast's spine. He found the woman, trembling, had moved close to his side.

"What does it mean?"

"I don't know," he said—"sounds like a pack of starving wolves. . . . No matter; it can't concern us. In two minutes . . . "

The Echo had drawn near enough for the noise of the motor to be perceptible; she was moving under power only, her sail down but not furled, hanging in stiff and clumsy folds in the lazy-jacks. He could even see the tender trailing astern, and make out a single figure at the wheel. . . . Then the latter bobbed down out of sight for an instant, and the purring of the engine was abrupted. There followed the splash of the anchor, and the little vessel brought up quickly, swinging wide to face the wind.

With a warning cry Katherine stepped quickly away from Coast and swung round, whipping out her small but effective pearl-handled revolver.

"Stop!" she cried in a vibrant voice. "Halt, or I'll fire!"

Some Sort of Order Was Evidently Evolved.

CHAPTER XX.

In his arms Katherine moved with a stifled moan of weariness, a gasp, and then a stiffening of her body which told him that she was now wide awake and mistress of her wits, in full comprehension of their position.

"Katherine—"

"What is it?"

"The Echo—Appleyard, I think—I'm sure. He'll be here in just a few minutes—ten or fifteen; and you must help me show the light."

"Help me up," she said in a dejected voice.

He rose and took her hands, lifting her to her feet. With one thought uppermost in both minds, they turned toward the sea.

Off to the northwest the red port and white masthead lights of the catboat were slipping briskly shorewards—the green no longer visible—standing in for the beach where the long-boat lay.

A groan escaped Coast.

"Oh, the devil!" he said beneath his breath, exasperated; and aloud, half-frantically: "Hurry! He's taking the other light for my signal. Here"—grabbed up the steamer's rug and thrust it unceremoniously into Katherine's hand—"hold this so, to hide it from the beach, while I light the lantern."

With agonizing slowness the minutes sped, and still the boat held on directly for the beach below the Cold Lairs. Then abruptly the watcher by the long-boat awakened to its approach, apparently for the first time, and sounded the alarm by firing a shot from his revolver. A second later, in desperation, Coast sent a piercing whistle echoing over the waters.

Immediately, at the pistol shot, the Echo swerved sharply off to the west, her red side light disappeared; and for a full minute held on so before she swung smartly on her heel and showed first the green and then the red, bearing straight as an arrow for the end of the sand spit.

The Resort Prospectus.

"Going to run daily excursions this year?"

"Oh, yes."

"I notice you don't advertise a gorge any more."

"No. I made it a ravine instead. Some people thought a gorge meant a place to eat."

LOCALS.

Measles.

Saturday is June 1st.

Mrs. John Stuart, of State College was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Lizzie Jacobs, in Centre Hall, for several days.

F. M. Ackerman, of Georges Valley, the painter and decorator, was in Centre Hall on Monday and did work for several parties in town.

Dr. Hayes, of Bellefonte, and Dr. Dale, of State College, were in Centre Hall last week, in consultation with Dr. Foster on two of the latter's patients.

Miss Freda Bailey returned from Bellefonte on Wednesday. She was the guest of Miss Nellie Smith, daughter of Register J. Frank Smith, for a week.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. William F. Colyer, on the Colyer farm, east of Old Fort. This is son No. 2 and this will more than please the young father.

J. W. Mowery is back to his old home near Centre Hall. For some months he had charge of the Lyric, in Bellefonte, but since its sale to Harry Harper his services are no longer needed, as Mr. Harper is operating the picture show himself.

Memorial services will be held in Centre Hall as usual, at six o'clock. The children will meet at the Evangelical church and march from there to the cemetery. Prayer will be offered by Rev. S. A. Snyder and the address will be by Rev. R. Raymond Jones.

Unless something unforseen happens, Rev. F. W. Barry will fill his appointments on the Lutheran charge on Sunday as is indicated on the regular schedule. He expects to come to Centre Hall on Saturday. His father, he reports, is somewhat improved, since having returned from a Philadelphia hospital.

A short time ago several girls and children were wandering about the Snyder improvements, along the Seven Mountains, above Reiber's farm near Colyer, and looking down a well or cistern discovered a dead deer lying in it. It is presumed the animal fell into the pit as it bounded along the mountain side to escape something that frightened it.

Mrs. W. Vernon Godshall, accompanied by her two daughters, arrived at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Kline, at Center Mills, Tuesday evening. They expect to come to Centre Hall within ten days and open their home here. The Godshalls had been in Porto Rico since September, and Prof. Godshall remained there, being one of the professors in the university in Rio Piedras.

Several sheep and a cow belonging to C. W. Slack, east of Old Fort, were suffering from eating poison of some kind, and two of the sheep died, while the remainder recovered. The animals came in from pasture as usual, and in the morning six of the sheep were sick, and the next day a cow showed the same symptoms. It is presumed the animals ate some poisonous weed while pasturing in a clearing.

The passenger train west on Tuesday morning killed a cow belonging to Daniel Houser, west of Centre Hall. Mr. Houser was herding his cattle on the cross road leading from his place to Earlystown, and had gone to talk to a neighbor who was working in a field nearby. During his absence the cattle wandered onto the right-of-way, and when the train came along one of the cows failed to clear the track soon enough to avoid being hit.

Prof. B. I. Meyers, for four years superintendent of the Philipsburg schools, has announced that he is not a candidate for reelection, and that it is his intention to go to Philadelphia to engage in business. Mr. Meyers is a thorough school man, and was also greatly admired by the rank and file of the public school teachers throughout the county for his ability shown as a musical director at the county institutes.

Mrs. Joanna Foster, of Buffalo, was in Centre Hall the guest of Mrs. Maggie Smith. The two were chums in their girlhood days, but now both are past eighty, yet unusually active. Mrs. Foster, before marriage was Miss Ettinger, of Aaronsburg, and for many years after her marriage lived in Mifflinburg. During the past few years she made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Bletzer, in Buffalo. The family is now moving to Carlisle.

Farm Dwelling House Afire.

The dwelling house on Nittany Mountain, on the Bilger farm, tenanted by John Tate, narrowly escaped being destroyed by fire on Saturday at about two o'clock. In fact, it was only due to the accidental appearance on the scene of Dr. Brockerhoff and Philip Beezer, passing over the mountain in an auto, that saved the building. The roof of an annex was all ablaze when the gentlemen named were speeding along the roadway, and it was their work and directions in handling the means at hand that saved the main dwelling house from being totally destroyed. There was an abundance of water, but it was not too convenient, yet it was gotten to the place in time. Mr. Tate and the other men on the place were in the fields at the time, and did not notice the blaze.

NEW DEPARTURE.

Selling Medicines at Half Price Under Guarantee of Cure.

After two months of remarkable sales, Murray & Bitner, the enterprising druggist, says that their plan of selling at half price the regular 50 cent size of Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia, and guaranteeing to refund the money if it does not cure, has been the greatest success they have ever known.

Anyone suffering with dyspepsia, constipation, liver troubles, headaches, dizziness, coated tongue, or the general tired feeling, caused by inactive liver and bowels or disordered digestion, should take advantage of Murray & Bitners new departure and buy a bottle of Dr. Howard's specific at half price, with their personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure.

Second Week of Court.

The second week of court adjourned Tuesday. The case of Lillie Dale vs. the executors of George Dale, deceased, was up for trial Monday and Tuesday. The judge ordered a verdict in the sum of $1832, subject to a point of law. It appears Miss Dale sued for a book account. George Dale, her father, paid each of his children $75 a year during the time that they were at home after becoming of age. Miss Dale had been paid at this rate for a part of the time, but there yet remained the sum named to her credit, as claimed by her. According to the testimony, the Dale estate is valued at about $17000, giving to each of the five heirs about $3500. In his will Mr. Dale gave Miss Lillie Dale, the contestant, the Dale homestead and the furniture, valued, all told, at about $7000. In his will Mr. Dale used language that led some of the heirs to believe that this portion was meant to cover all of her claim, while she contends that it was not intended that the book account of $1800 should be set aside. The case is a rather complicated one, and there is much speculation whether or not the court will set aside the verdict.

Mrs. Ellen Herman Dead.

Mrs. Ellen E. Herman died at her home at Lemont, at two o'clock Monday morning, May 20th, heart failure and other complications being the cause of her death. She was born April 15th, 1848, at Frenchville, Clearfield county. Her parents were John W. and Clara Miller. She was married to William Miller in 1871; five children were born to them, two died in infancy. Several years after Mr. Miller's death she was married to Jacob Herman and one son was born to them. She is survived by her husband, two sons and two daughters: Harry Miller, State College; Mrs. Mary Williams, of Philipsburg; Mrs. Margaret Longwell and Wade Herman, of Lemont. Also three brothers and two sisters survive: David, John and George Miller, of Pine Grove Mills, and Mary and Phoebe Miller, of Shingletown. She was a member of the Reformed church; funeral services were held in the Reformed church at Boalsburg on Wednesday forenoon, conducted by her pastor, Rev. S. C. Stover. Interment was made in the cemetery adjoining the church.

Rev. Pearce Dead.

The remains of Rev. John I. Pearce were interred at Lock Haven on Wednesday. He was a prominent Methodist minister, and was well-known in Pennsylvania, New York and Ohio. His death occured in Conneaut, Ohio. In 1855 he was elected to Congress from the Centre-Clinton district, and after his term of office expired again resumed the ministry.

Coleville Band Will Be Here.

The Coleville band, the well known musical organization, will be in Centre Hall today (Memorial Day), at about 5:30 o'clock, and render music during the memorial services.

LOCALS

The Coleville band will be in town this (Thursday) evening.

Mrs. A. Luckenbach, of Bellefonte, is visiting her sister, Mrs. D. J. Meyer.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Homan, of Altoona, came to Centre Hall a few days ago.

William Stump suffered from a light attack of pneumonia, last week, but now is about again.

Mrs. M. P. Kent, who returned from the Bellefonte hospital ten days ago, is getting along nicely.

Rev. J. H. Keller, the newly-elected pastor of the Lutheran church, at Philipsburg, has entered upon his duties.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Boozer, Capt. G. M. Boal and Shannon Boozer, were in Reedsville to vist the Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Meyer.

Mrs. John Durner, Mrs. W. J. Folk, Misses Helen Riley and Ruth Durner, all of Boalsburg, last week visited Mrs. H. C. Shirk, in Centre Hall.

Capt. W. H. Brown and a detail of fifteen privates, will decorate the graves of their companions, at Centre Hall, at nine o'clock this (Thursday) morning.

Bell telephone employees are putting up two additional copper wire circuits between Millheim and Spring Mills, and Spring Mills and Centre Hall. The new circuits will also be continued to Bellefonte. The traffic has proven too heavy for their present toll lines, but with the additional circuits they hope to give satisfactory service.

Miss Bertha McCormick, for several years chief operator in the Commercial telephone exchange, at Centre Hall, became seriously ill the latter part of last week. Her condition is improved at this writing (Wednesday), but not to such an extent as is wished by her many friends. Miss Madaline Gearett, of Bellefonte, is taking Miss McCormick's place in the telephone exchange.

Worked an Old Trick.

One of the solons under the gilt dome of the Massachusetts statehouse swears this happened to him. Have you heard it—back in the rattle days?

"Six of us went down on the cape duck shooting soon after the season opened. I was not much of a shooter, so the gang thought they would put one over on me and assigned me to a blind where no ducks ever were known to go and went away and left me there. From an hour before sunrise until late afternoon I stuck to the job, but nary a quack.

"That night at the table I absentmindedly cut open a shell and was surprised at the number of small shot it contained. After more or less airing of opinions on projectiles from each 'expert' a pool was made up on the number. Fifty bucks—ten a head—is not a bad day's work, I think. Eh? How? What do you suppose I was doing for twelve hours in that blind?"

And yet they wonder at some of the bills that get by the sacred codfish.—Boston Traveler.

Not Their Fault.

An American woman who resided for some years in Mexico had an odd experience with an earthquake. She was the mother of two lively small sons. One day they had been especially obstreperous and did not grow quieter as the time for her siesta and theirs approached. After rousing her from her nap two or three times by their antics she gave them fair warning that if there was any further commotion severe punishment would result. Again she dropped off into sleep. Suddenly she found herself awake and on her feet with sounds of banging still in her ears and the room quivering as if from the fall of a heavy piece of furniture. The boys, scared and guilty looking, were in the doorway. She seized the nearer, reversed him and had him half spanked before the excited protests of his brother penetrated to her brain through his anguished howls. Then she became aware that she was spanking him for an earth quake.—New York Herald.

Written on Glass.

Miss Harriet Auber's beautiful lines, "Our Blessed Redeemer, Ere He Breathed," were written by the authoress on a windowpane in her house at Hoddesdon. A dealer in curios tried to purchase this interesting and peculiar manuscript from the owner of the house after the death of Miss Auber in 1862, but he was unsuccessful. The pane of glass was subsequently stolen, and it has never since been found or its fate discovered.

Centuries ago Theodulph, bishop of Orleans, while in prison at Metz composed the hymn, "All Glory, Laud and Honor," which he wrote on the window of his cell. As the usual Palm Sunday procession passed through the town the emperor heard sounds of singing proceeding from the prison. He thereupon liberated the bishop, whose hymn was afterward regularly used on each succeeding Palm Sunday as a processional, the choir taking up each quatrain and the public joining in singing the chorus.

High Bridge.

High bridge, in New York, was completed in 1842 and at that time was considered one of the world's marvels of bridge building. It may be added that it still is looked upon by bridge builders as a model of its kind. This great stone bridge was built to bring water into the city from the Croton river valley after the great dam was thrown across it forty miles above Manhattan. The aqueduct, cut part way through solid rock and part way continued by tunnel, had to be brought across the Harlem, and the solution of this engineering problem was in High bridge.

70 Years with Coughs

We have had seventy years of experience with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. This makes us have great confidence in it for coughs, colds, bronchitis, weak throats, and weak lungs. We want you to have confidence in it, as well. Ask your own doctor what experience he has had with it. He knows. Keep in close touch with him.

One of Ayer's Pills at bedtime will cause an increased flow of bile and produce a gentle laxative effect the day following. Formula on each box. Show it to your doctor. He will understand at a glance. Dose, one pill at bedtime, just one.

Do Not Repair an Old Wooden Porch

In a few years its props and posts will decay again, through exposure to the weather, and you have the job to do over again. Better tear down the wood structure and build it of concrete—posts, steps, foundation and even the floor. Then you will have an everlasting porch of solid appearance and beautiful design, which is also fire-proof. Mix a few sacks of with clean sand to make your concrete. It is absolutely uniform in quality and is easily handled. We will gladly show you how to use it in making concrete.

ALL OVER THE STATE

Notes That Are of Interest to Pennsylvanians.

Hazleton.—Playing with matches in a barn at Eckley, Michael, the four-year-old son of Michael Kassock, an idle miner, was burned to death.

Harrisburg.—Frank M. Guistwhite, a salesman, fell dead from heart disease as he was using a telephone in his home.

Allentown.—Thieves broke into the home of Rabbi Joseph Rosenberg, aged eighty-three, who last week married a widow of seventy-nine, and stole forty-five dollars.

Allentown.—Joseph Puchkata, who works in an Allentown brick yard, was run over by a runaway horse and cart which he tried to stop. His spine was broken.

Harrisburg. — Theodore Wiseman, aged nine, went swimming with older boys and got in water beyond his depth. He was drowned before help could reach him.

Allentown.—Edwin Kreiss, a farm hand, aged forty-five, was found dead on the barn floor by William Fenicle, a Hanover farmer, having fallen from the hay mow and fractured his skull.

Catasauqua.—William Ginz, who assisted his son-in-law, John W. Keys, in the manufacture of clinical thermometers, was found dead in his bedroom at Catasauqua, aged fifty-seven.

Weatherly.—'Squire E. P. Williams, who served on the Carbon County bench as associate judge for one term of five years, was stricken with paralysis, and is in a critical condition.

Quarryville.—Joseph Adams is in the General Hospital, Lancaster, in a critical condition, having fallen from the roof of his barn to the ground, a distance of more than twenty feet.

Bethlehem.—While returning from a business trip to Bath, George Riter, a driver for Swift & Co., was held up and robbed of $50 by three highwaymen, who severely beat him.

Shenandoah.—Joseph, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Urban, prominent residents, fell into a tub of hot water and was badly scalded about the head, chest and back. The child's condition is critical.

Johnstown.—Joseph, aged four, and Alexander, aged two, sons of John Walsh, of Garnett, were playing with lighted matches when a keg of powder nearby exploded. Both children were so badly burned that they died next morning.

Phoenixville.—While sleeping after dinner, a burning ember fell from the pipe which Danko Stanko, fifty-five years, was smoking, and setting fire to his clothing, burned him so seriously that he is in a dying condition at the Phoenixville Hospital.

Harrisburg.—The new superintendents of highways are to report to the engineers in charge of their district immediately and will take up the work of maintenance of roads which have been taken over by the State.

Slatington.—As the result of a thirty-foot fall from a pole, Harry Morgan, lineman at Slatington, suffered concussion of the brain and had all his teeth knocked out. He is in a serious condition at the Palmerton hospital.

South Bethlehem.—Detective J. B. Doran returned from Akron, Ohio, with Mrs. Samuel Cohen and Peter Kovacics, who eloped from South Bethlehem with several hundred dollars belonging to the woman's husband.

Lancaster.—Frank Iganitch, aged forty-five, an employee of the McCall's Ferry power plant, is dying in the Columbia hospital from injuries received in falling one hundred feet from a scaffold. His skull is fractured, his right arm and left leg broken.

Harrisburg.—A new pest, the clover weevil, is attacking clover and alfalfa in many parts of the State. The bug is as voracious and hard to kill as the blister beetle, which ruined alfalfa in some sections of Pennsylvania last year.

Lansford.—Citizens are up in arms against Town Council for not improving the streets of the town, and threaten to take the matter into court unless immediate action is taken to put the town's thoroughfares in good condition.

Harrisburg.—Agents of the State Dairy and Food Division have just completed some sampling of milk and cream sold in Allegheny County towns, and as a result three suits for sale of milk low in fats have been ordered. Extensive sampling has been going on in eastern counties as well, but the results have not yet been obtained.

Birdsboro.—An explosion of an oil tank at one of the blast furnaces of the E. & G. Brooke Iron Company caused a $25,000 fire, destroying three blowing engines, an electric light plant, six pumps and a number of dynamos.

Catasauqua.—Owing to a mistake in a signal, the cage man at the Ballict ore mine started the elevator at the wrong time. Jeremiah Rupert, the foreman, was being crushed slowly to death, when the owner of the mine gave the signal to stop the elevator. The injured man's condition is serious.

HOW MATHEWSON FANNED MIKE MITCHELL

Captain Mitchell, Crack Outfielder of Cincinnati.

"Dode" Paskert tells an interesting yarn on Matty and his headwork. The Reds were playing the Giants and Mike Mitchell was clouting Matty's shoots to all corners of the lot, while Dick Hoblitzel had fanned three successive times.

The Reds had a man on second and a man on third, with two out in the ninth inning, and the Giants had a one-run lead. A single would have won the game and Hobby was the hitter. The fans were giving up hope when Matty deliberately passed Hobby to take a chance on Mitchell, who had made two triples and a double in his three trips to the plate.

The fans shouted and laughed. They thought it was all off with Matty. Mitchell had been clouting Matty's fast ball and Mike expected to see the fade-away or Matty's curve come up to the plate. Matty cut loose a fast one straight over the center of the plate. Mitchell was dumfounded and did not even swing.

Then he stepped up closer to the plate because he was positive that the next would be a curve ball. Zip. Another fast one shot straight across the plate. Once again Mike, in his surprise, allowed it to pass. Then he was dead sure he had Matty and that "Big Six" would waste a curve ball. Once again the ball went over the center of the plate. Mitchell was dumfounded and did not even swing.

Matty had deliberately given him three fast balls, without a shoot on them, and all of them were right across the center of the plate and where Mitchell would ordinarily have killed them.

HOW CHICAGOS LOST O'BRIEN

Carl Lundgren Gave President Murphy His Opinion That Buck Would Not Do for Cubs.

"If it hadn't been for Carl Lundgren the Cubs would have Pitcher O'Brien today," says President Murphy of the Chicago Cubs. "Lundgren played for the Chicago team many years and was a most excellent pitcher. He was uniformly good during the cold days, when most twirlers can scarcely hold the ball. He won many games for the Cubs at such times and was a factor in our success.

"His judgment slipped up in the case of O'Brien, however. I had heard a lot about O'Brien's wonderful work in the Connecticut league. In fact, many persons had written me advising his purchase by the Cubs. I picked up an eastern paper one day, noticed where Lundgren was playing on the Hartford club, the same that O'Brien was a member of, and decided to get Carl's opinion of the youngster.

"Carl had pitched for the University of Illinois before joining the Cubs, and as George Huff was coach of the Illinois, in addition to being our scout at that time, I decided to get busy. First of all I asked Huff to write Lundgren and find out what he thought of O'Brien. The answer came back in due time: 'O'Brien is only a fair pitcher.'

"That settled O'Brien for me. If he didn't look good to Lundgren, I didn't see where he could be used by the Cubs. Yet that same O'Brien pitched amazing ball for the Denver club of the Western league, and was grabbed up by the Boston Red Sox before we could get another crack at him. Jack Hendricks, manager of the Denver club, and one of the best developers of young ball players in the business, according to my way of thinking, considers O'Brien the best young pitcher he has ever set eyes on.

"For that matter, a club owner has to pick and choose diamonds in the rough for himself. Take the case of Gandil. Two experts have told me Gandil was a world beater—two said they wouldn't have him on their club. What can you do in the face of such conditions? Just trust to your own insight and luck, I believe.

"We have had several youngsters whom we let go, believing they would not do. Yet these same players went to other major league clubs and were whales with the bat and in the field. Really, you know very little after all."

"BUCK" O'BRIEN

Foxy Joe McGinnity.

Manager Joe McGinnity of Newark was offered back Joe Agler by the Cubs, but declined to take him, since he is sure Harry Swacina will fill all requirements. Agler and Smith went to the Cubs in a deal by which McGinnity was to get players or cash. Bob Fisher was sent to Newark and a list of others, including Agler, submitted to McGinnity. None of them looked good to him and he demanded cash instead, to the amount of $3,000. President Murphy sent him a check for the amount and Agler went to Jersey City. The deal McGinnity made was a good one, for Fisher bids fair to be worth as much as both Smith and Agler, and Joe has the 3,000 bones besides.

World's Series Games.

The move to increase the world's series from seven games to nine really brings back the plan inaugurated in the modern blue-ribbon event of baseball. Pittsburg and Boston in 1903 were scheduled to play until one team won five. The first four games left the series standing three to one in Pittsburg's favor, but Jimmy Collins' crowd "came back" and took four straight. Mack and McGraw favor nine games.

Lafitte Released to Providence.

Edward Lafitte, a member of the Detroit American league pitching staff, has been released to the Providence club of the International league. Lafitte went to Detroit after making a great record in the old Eastern league in 1910.

Pleased With Miller.

Roger Bresnahan is much pleased over acquiring the ownership of Outfielder Miller. Cincinnati wanted to send Miller to Fort Wayne, Ind., but Roger blocked the deal and landed Elmer for the waiver price.

Manager Wallace Is Happy.

Manager Wallace of the Browns is happy over the trade he made which brought Stovall to St. Louis. Stoval is leading the club in batting with a .400 mark and playing the best ball of his career.

CONNIE MACK IS SARCASTIC

Supposedly of Easy-Going Disposition, Manager of Athletics Is Stern Disciplinarian.

Connie Mack at times is the most sarcastic manager in baseball. On the face he has an easy-going disposition, yet he is one of the sternest disciplinarians in the game, although he is never apparently stern.

During the early days of the American league Mack had as first baseman the veteran Charley Carr, manager of the Kansas City team of the American association.

This was in 1901, and Mack was having a struggle to keep above water. He had a raw-boned youth named Plank on the mound one day. The Athletics played wretchedly, Plank's pitching being as bad as the Mackmen's fielding.

Carr was a particularly bad performer. After the giant first baseman dropped his third thrown ball, Mack became wild, but in a quiet way. He waited for Carr as he was walking to the bench. Taking a dime from his pocket, he handed it to Carr.

"Why, what's that for?" said Carr in surprise.

"It's carfare home," replied Mack coldly, "and take Plank with you."

Mack meant what he said and didn't permit either Carr or Plank to play any more that day.

Speaker After Record.

Tris Speaker has thrown his hat into the ring for the batting championship of the American league. Ty Cobb of Detroit and Joe Jackson of Cleveland, have been hugging an opinion that the batting honors of the organization should be the personal property of one of them next October. Speaker says they "have got to show him."

DIAMOND GOSSIP

Bobby Vaughn reported to Joe McGinnity's Newarks at the eleventh hour.

Pittsburg has sent Infielder Ray Jansen to Wheeling of the Central league.

Mr. Jackson of Boston is not living up to the family name as well as he did last year.

Dave Shean, Cub infielder farmed to Louisville, has been suspended for failure to report to the Colonels.

Charles Severeid, first baseman on the Rockford team for three seasons, will be turned over to the Superior club.

Utica has released Bert Noblett, for several years before going to New York the crack second baseman of the Central league.

Daniel J. Hays, aged fifty-four, and known in his playing days as "Manzy" Hayes, died recently at his home in Brockton, Mass.

The veteran Joe Keenan, last year manager of the London team, has signed with the Hamilton team of the Canadian league.

Johnny Shovelin, who went fast in the Ohio-Pennsylvania league last season, has signed with Newark in the Ohio State league.

Two Mack cast-offs—Hogan of St. Louis and Rath of Chicago—are playing good ball. Rath of the Sox is hitting the ball hard and fielding in excellent style.

Dan Moeller of Washington is one player who can prove that he can come back. On his second trial in fast company he is playing good ball for Washington.

Manager Davis of Cleveland is evidently going to take a leaf out of his former manager's book. He has already signed Captain Nash of the Brown University team.

Cleveland has sent Dick Talbot, product of the Ohio city's sand lots, to Toledo. He was a catcher and made over into an outfielder and will go into the outer garden for Hartzel.

There is a pitcher on the St. Louis Browns who will delight in beating Washington. He is Elmer Brown, who had a trial under Griffith at Cincinnati and was declared no good.

It was a big blow to Wolverton when Harry Wolter was injured; Wolter was playing good ball all around. His hitting and base running was the feature of the team's work up to the time he was put out of the game.

Oscar Vitt, the youngster pick-up by Jennings last fall for the infield, is versatile. He has never played anywhere but in the infield, but Jennings sent him to the outfield on account of his great hitting, and he is proving a sensation.

The TWO FLAGS

OCCASIONALLY there comes to the writing man a story ready made from actual happenings before his eyes. Or there is told to him some tale that does not require the slightest movement of literary machinery to weave it into shape. The woof and warp are as straight and true and compact as if it had required hours of concentration to produce the fabric. Actual events follow in such dramatic sequence that it almost seems as if art had been brought to bear upon their presentation.

The other day a magazine writer visited the new state house in Boston in order to see the decorations that had been recently placed on the walls. He was standing looking at the picture painted by Mr. Robert Reid, the picture of Otis delivering his fiery speech before the judges, when suddenly a voice spoke at his elbow. Looking round, he saw standing beside him a short, slight man in a blue uniform. It did not take the little bronze button in the lapel of his coat to label him as an old soldier. He was stamped with it from the erect carriage of his head and shoulders to the glance of his keen gray eye.

"You have been through the building?" he asked suddenly. And upon being told that it was the writer's first visit, he politely offered his services as guide. They were accepted promptly. The little man in blue pointed out the old Hessian drum and sword, the first musket captured from the British, and the one that fired the shot at Lexington. He knew stories of the famous portraits on the walls, and after having examined the old senate and council chamber, he led the visitor down to the great octagon-shaped rotunda, where, behind their plates of glass, artfully grouped and festooned, were the battle flags of the Massachusetts regiments—nothing but the bare flagstaffs of some, others mere shreds of bunting hanging in pathetic festoons, only a few with the colors intact, pierced here and there with bullet holes. Stopping before the first corner he began in his low, well-modulated voice to explain about them. There were two shafts, shattered and roughly spliced a few inches below the gilded spear-heads.

"Those two flags," he began, "were given to the regiment by two sisters, who were engaged to be married to two officers; one a captain, the other a lieutenant. As you see, the flags were both hit in almost identically the same spot, and under them both officers were killed." Pointing to another flag he said, "Beneath this flag seven men were killed and four were wounded. It was decorated with a medal of honor." So it went on. There was a story to almost every one of the timeworn relics of the battlefields. At last the guide came to the case in the northwest corner of the hall. Immediately in front was a silken banner across whose faded red and white strips was a big blotch of brown. It needed no second glance to tell what the blotch meant.

"There is a story here," remarked the visitor, and the little man in blue looked at him keenly.

"Yes, sir, there is," he replied. "Three men were killed carrying that flag at the battle of Appomattox; as one would fall another would snatch it up, and still they carried it forward. As they went on, in the charge, a shell exploded over the head of the last man who had caught it, and a fragment struck him in the arm, between shoulder and elbow, cutting it off as by a surgeon's knife. He clasped the flag to his breast with the bloody stump and staggered on. At last, as he felt himself weakening, he turned about, and, seeing near him a man in his company who came from the same town, he cried, 'For God's sake, take it, Frank, I can't carry it any longer.'"

The visitor was breathless. "Well," he said, "and then—"

"There is a strange ending to that," returned the guide. "I was telling this to some visitor only the other day, and had got as far as what I am telling you when a tall man with gray hair, who was standing about where you are now, spoke up. 'Comrade,' he said, 'you're right! I was Frank.'"

A few minutes later, as they went down the corridor, the visitor asked another question.

"And what was the name of the sergeant whose blood we see there?" he asked.

"His name was Plunkett," was the answer. "There he is!"

A soldierly looking man in the blue uniform of a messenger of the senate came walking down the corridor. The magazine writer and his guide turned toward him. Across his breast was pinned an empty sleeve.—J. B. in Harper's Weekly

Who Drank the Toddy?

by Fitzhugh Lee

IN August, 1862, the armies of General Lee and General Pope confronted each other on the Rappahannock river, in Virginia. General Lee had determined to attack Pope, and conceived a plan as brilliant as it was daring. He purposed to leave one-half of his army under Longstreet in front of Pope, and throw the other half, under Jackson, by a circuitous march to a point twenty-one miles exactly between him and Washington.

In pursuance of his plan and to facilitate its execution, a day or two before Jackson started Lee determined to throw his cavalry, under Stuart, twelve miles in Pope's rear, at Catlett's Station, a point on the railroad connecting Pope with his capital.

At that place were encamped the reserve, baggage and ammunition trains of Pope's army. There, too, were his personal effects. Stuart captured a number of officers and men, a large sum of money in a safe in one of the tents and dispatches and other papers, but the rain fell in such torrents and the night was so dark that it was not possible for Stuart to damage the railroad to any extent or to burn the railroad bridges or the acres of camp wagons that were there.

My command was in advance on that terrible rainy night. I was riding with the lieutenant commanding the platoon which formed the advance guard, when I suddenly saw, between the flashes of lightning, a man run across the road.

Under the influence of the spur my horse in a single bound reached the man, and under the influence of a pistol held to his head he told me that he was a servant of General Pope who was there with his headquarters tents, which, he said, were pitched in a clump of pines close by.

I made him get up in front of one of the troopers and guide a squadron, which I detached from the leading regiment, to the tents in the pines. On reaching the spot I quickly surrounded the federal headquarters, and, seeing a light in one of the tents, I dismounted and with one of my men entered it.

It was vacant, but filled with a large number of papers, showing where some one had been recently writing. There were also two glasses of toddy on the table.

A few days thereafter I captured a squadron of the Federal dragoons, under Major Thomas Hite of the regular army, whom I had formerly known when a cadet at West Point.

The major said that he and Lewis Marshall, the latter being an aide de camp of Pope and a nephew of General Lee, were in one of the tents that night and that he had been working all day over his quartermaster papers, and in view of the fact, as well as the tempestuous character of the night, he proposed to Marshall that they should take a drink.

"The whisky was brought out," continued the major, "sugar was put in glasses with the proper amount of water, to which a liberal allowance of whisky was added. I was just pouring the toddy from one glass to the other, thinking how soon the situation would be improved by swallowing it, when I heard the noise of horses' hoofs, and the report of one or two pistol shots. I quickly put the glasses down, saying, 'I believe that is some of that d—— Confederate cavalry.'"

At this point of the narrative the major paused, and after looking around, added, "Gentlemen, if you believe me, I do not know whether I drank than toddy or not. The 'Rebs' were on us so quick that Marshall and I lifted the side of the tent and rolled down into a friendly ravine, and remained there shivering in the drenching rain until they rode off."

It only remains to say that Hite and Marshall did not drink the toddies they mixed, but that they rapidly disappeared down the throats of the two wet Confederates who found them.

ANNUAL RINGS IN THE TREES

Whitish Lines Are Medulary Rays, Which Make Silvered Grain in Oak and Other Woods.

If the trunk or branch of an oak tree is cut smoothly across, thin whitish lines may be seen running from within outward. Some of these lines begin in the center of the tree and others in each of the annual rings. These are the medulary rays, which make the silvered grain in quartered oak and other woods. They exist in all kinds of trees, but in many, as, for example, the chestnut, they are so fine as hardly to be seen with the naked eye.

It is correct to speak of the rings of growth as "annual rings," for as long as the tree is growing healthily a ring is formed each year. It is true that two false rings may appear in one year, but they are caused whenever the growth of the tree is interrupted. This happens when the foliage is destroyed by caterpillars and grows again in the same season, or when a severe drought in early summer stops growth for a time, after late frosts, and in similar cases.

An annual ring once formed does not change in size or place during the healthy life of the tree, except that it is covered in time by other younger layers.

FORKS AND SPADES IMPROVED

Fulcrum Attachment Eliminates Much of Back-Breaking Energy Needed in Working Soil.

Much of the back breaking energy required in using an earth fork or spade is expended in the dislodging of the load from the ground after the fork of spade has been inserted, which means a severe strain on the shoulder and back muscles. The attachment shown in the illustration lessens this labor by providing a fulcrum, says the Popular Mechanics. By simply pulling the handle backward the load is dislodged, the fulcrum bearing the strain instead of the muscles.

HABITS OF ORCHARD PESTS

No Definite Rule With Reference to Time Insects Deposit Their Eggs or Work Damage.

There is no definite rule that can be laid down with reference to the time at which winged insect pests of the orchard deposit their eggs. Some are night flying insects and deposit their eggs at night; others are active only during the day, and deposit their eggs during that time. The codling moth is one of the night flying insects and begin to deposit eggs late in the evening, just about dusk, and continues most active throughout the early part of the night. The curculio on the other hand, is most active during the day, remaining inactive at night. The same holds true with reference to the general activity of insects. As a rule the moths fly only at night, while some of the beetles are most active at night and others during the day.

PEACH SCAB AND BROWN ROT

Best Fungicide Known at Present Time Is Self-Boiled Lime and Sulphur Mixture.

The self-boiled lime and sulphur mixture is the best fungicide known at the present time for the control of peach scab and brown rot. Three applications are considered necessary for good results where peach scab is likely to occur. The first application is to be made just as the calyx is being shed from the fruits.

The second application to be made three weeks after the first. The third application should be made about three weeks after the second. The self-boiled lime and sulphur mixture should not be applied to the fruit within four weeks of the ripening time, as the mixture may give the fruit a whitewashed appearance when ready for market.

NEW TYPE OF SPRAY NOZZLE

Effectiveness of Spraying Depends Largely Upon Character of Tapering Tube Employed.

The effectiveness of spraying depends in large measure upon the character of the nozzle used, and it is especially important that the nozzle should be adapted to the specific purpose for which it is to be used. G. E. Stone of the Massachusetts station has devised a nozzle which he has used with very satisfactory results in spraying large trees from a high-pressure machine.

This nozzle is shown in Fig. 1, at A. It consists of a nozzle screwed tightly on to the tip of a standard attachment provided with shut-off, such as is often employed in spraying work. (See B.) The attachment, however, is incidental, as it may be fitted to any suitable metal connection threaded to fit, and provided with a hose connection at the lower end. The essential part of the nozzle, as shown at A, consists of a small brass tip, t, about 1½ inches long, provided with an aperture at the end one-eighth of an inch in diameter, although sometimes an aperture of 5-32 or 3-16 of an inch in diameter has been employed. About an inch or more above the center of the aperture there is placed a solid brass rod, c, one-fourth of an inch in diameter. This is attached to another rod, d, by means of a thin sheet of brass; the rod, d, works in a socket and allows the pointed brass rod, c, to be thrown in or out of center at will. The object of this center brass rod, c, is to take the spray as it comes out of the one-eighth-inch nozzle under high pressure and break it up into a fine mist, and with the pressure which we used it is capable of throwing the mist 20 or 25 feet. This is sufficient to reach, from a ladder, most of the foliage on a large elm tree. In case it is necessary to reach higher, the adjustment is thrown out of the center and the spray goes directly through the one-eighth-inch aperture. By this means a greater distance and carrying power are secured, although not so fine a spray.

In the drawing the nozzle is shown surrounded by a shield, c, which was for the purpose of protecting the point, c. The nozzle as originally constructed was not provided with a shield, being used for some days without it, but with the hard usage which it received [it was] found that the adjustment was likely to be injured. The nozzle was used in connection with a machine giving 250 pounds pressure, and the spraying mixture was carried through a one-inch hose.

This nozzle was used . . . in spraying over 1,000 trees having an average diameter of about 22 inches. Careful estimates made showed that the average amount of arsenate of lead per tree was 1.7 pounds, or about 17 gallons of arsenate of lead solution. The cost of spraying each tree, including the labor, gasoline and lead, was 55 cents.

The spraying was just as thorough and the cost was about one-third of that by the ordinary method, using Vermorel and other fine-mist nozzles.

HORTICULTURAL NOTES

The United States forest service is prepared to reforest 30,000 acres annually.

Trees should not be planted on a high slope, for the soil is likely to be too thin.

Grape vines require frequent shallow cultivation throughout the entire season.

Get your spraying equipment in good order several days before you must begin spraying.

Strain all spray materials through a good, fine strainer. It avoids clogged nozzles and wasted time.

The time to get a thing is when it is there. The time to get the apple worm is before he gets inside.

Know what you must spray for, then do the work right. Don't expect any one spray material to be a universal remedy.

When making the first application of poison for the codling moth use a coarse nozzle, high pressure and fill every calyx.

With fruiting orchards, mineral fertilizers are often of great assistance, but an excess of nitrogen should be avoided.

The pruning season is on—it requires much work, but more judgment. The age and variety of the tree must be kept in mind.

When the strawberries are off the vines remove the mulch and cultivate thoroughly to kill off the weeds and put the soil in fine condition.

WHITE PLAGUE LESS DEADLY

Decrease in Death Rate From Tuberculosis Means Saving of 27,000 Lives in Ten Years.

In the decade from 1901 to 1910, the death rate from tuberculosis in the United States declined from 196.9 for each 100,000 persons living to 160.3, a decrease of 18.7 per cent, while the general death rate, including all causes of death, declined only one-half as fast, or at the rate of 9.7 per cent, from 1655.0 to 1495.8, according to figures given out by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. The figures are based on data abstracted from the reports of the United States Bureau of the Census, and cover the registration area in this country. According to the statement, the tuberculosis death rate has declined steadily since 1904, when it was 201.6. On the other hand, the general death rate shows a fluctuation downward in general trend, but not as steady as the tuberculosis rate. The decline in the tuberculosis death rate in the last ten years means a saving of 27,000 lives at the present time.

ECZEMA BROKE OUT ON BABY

"When my baby was two months old, she had eczema and rash very badly. I noticed that her face and body broke out very suddenly, thick, and red as a coal of fire. I did not know what to do. The doctor ordered castile soap and powders, but they did no good. She would scratch, as it itched, and she cried, and did not sleep for more than a week. One day I saw in the paper the advertisement of the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, so I got them and tried them at once. My baby's face was as a cake of sores.

"When I first used the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, I could see a difference. In color it was redder. I continued with them. My baby was in a terrible condition. I used the Cuticura Remedies (Soap and Ointment) four times a day, and in two weeks she was quite well. The Cuticura Remedies healed her skin perfectly, and her skin is now pretty and fine through using them. I also use the Cuticura Soap today, and will continue to, for it makes a lovely skin. Every mother should use the Cuticura Remedies. They are good for all sores, and the Cuticura Soap is also good for shampooing the hair, for I have tried it. I tell all my friends how the Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured my baby of eczema and rash." (Signed) Mrs. Drew, 210 W. 18th St., New York City, Aug. 26, 1910.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

There is no reason why you shouldn't try again, even though at first you do succeed.

WOMEN SHOULD BE PROTECTED

Against So Many Surgical Operations. How Mrs. Bethune and Mrs. Moore Escaped.

Sikeston, Mo.—"For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I cramped and had backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do my own housework, hoe my garden, and milk a cow. I can entertain company and enjoy them. I can visit when I choose, and walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the month. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl."—Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

Murrayville, Ill.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a very bad case of female trouble and it made me a well woman. My health was all broken down, the doctors said I must have an operation, and I was ready to go to the hospital, but dreaded it so that I began taking your Compound. I got along so well that I gave up the doctors and was saved from the operation."—Mrs. CHARLES MOORE, R. R. No. 3, Murrayville, Ill.
